... When spring breezes blow warm sunshine over the land —

the plant is ready to break out of its tiny world . . .

... to send roots into the earth,
a stem toward the sky . . .

. . . and a new tree is growing . . .

Class Song 1970

We began as all life does,
And we thought only of ourselves.
Now the world is ours, the search begins,
And in these words the truth appears.

Human rights . . . dignity of mankind . . .
equality . . . growth . . . concern . . .
action . . . self . . . awareness . . . beauty
. . . purpose . . . honesty . . . peace . . .
love.

Our meaning in these words we find,
O splendor of a glorious life.
Now the world is ours, the search unfolds,
And in our lives the truth is told.
